

Peter Elmer: Building Research Software Collaborations

This talk will discuss the nature of large research software collaborations in particle physics. I will discuss how these collaborations are created and how they have evolved over the past 20 years as well as current efforts and goals for their future evolution.